UNDER SECRETARY DILLON ARRIVES TO CONFER WITH ROC LEADERS

Taipei, Oct. 21 (CNA): U. S. Under Secretary Douglas C. Dillon arrived here yesterday to "have a full and comradely exchange of views with Chinese leaders" which he said he is sure will will strengthen the ties of mutual trust and confidence between the Republic of China and the United States.

He is having a series of talks with President Chiang Kai-shek and Vice President Chen Cheng this morning.

"The American people and government full realize the importance of your dedicated efforts in the defense of freedom against Communist aggression in the Far East. We are proud to have so valiantly an ally", he said in his prepared statement upon arrival.

Under Secretary and Mrs. Dillon and a party of eight arrived at the Sungshan Airport shortly before noon. Immediately after he stepped out the special military plane he met the local press at the military airport's reception room.

He read a formal statement, before answering press questions.

SUMMIT CONFAB NOT TO TOUCH FE SUBJECTS

The summit conference would be primarily directed to finding a solution of the question of Berlin. He wouldn't have thought that it would have "any effect on the Far East because certainly there would be no discussion of Far East subjects without the presence of those who are concerned."

He doesn't think that will happen at all, he said.

The possibility for a summit conference is greater now because the Soviet Union "has greatly modified their position and removed the threat of duress or aggression which hung over the situation up until now that makes it more likely that a summit conference may take place on this subject in the no too distant future."

"WE KNOW TAIWAN IS PART OF CHINA"

Concerning a U. S. State Department philosophy that Taiwan is not a country and not part of the Republic of China, the No. Two man of the State Department said: "it certainly had no political implication at all."

Here is his full answer to this question: That happened just before I left and it certainly is not indicative of any serious thought on the part of the State Department.

"We know Taiwan is part of the Republic of China and that the Republic of China includes the whole area of China, but the technical reasons for that ruling (that Taiwan is not part of China) certainly had no political implications at all."

In the meantime, he didn't know the details of the ruling, he said.

NO INDICATION OF RED RENUNCIATION OF FORCE

According to the Under Secretary, the mere fact of the release of the prisoners by the Chinese Communist regime would make no difference "just by itself" with the relations between the U. S. and Peiping.

The more important factor, he said, is the Chinese Communist renunciation of use of force in the Taiwan Straits but "certainly we see no indications that it will."

He made these remarks when asked whether the Chinese Communist release of five American prisoners and renunciation of use of force in the Taiwan Straits would make it easier for the U. S. to recognize the Peiping regime.

In answering another question, the Under Secretary said he may talk with Chinese leaders in general terms on U. S. aid to China but negotiations of detail of the aid program are always handled through the U. S. Embassy here.

AMERICANS REALIZE ROC DEDICATED EFFORTS

Full text of Under Secretary Dillon's statement on arrival reads:

"I look forward with keen anticipation to this opportunity to spend a few days with the people and leaders of the Republic of China. The American people and government fully realize the importance of your dedicated efforts in defense of freedom against Communist aggression in the Far East. Only one year ago, when the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was here your armed forces were heroically demonstrating their capacity to halt aggression. We are proud to have so valiant an ally.

"I have also heard much of your great achievements in agricultural and industrial growth in improving the livelihood of the people while safeguarding their cherished traditions. These stand in stark contrast to the oppressive rule of the Communists on the mainland. As I travel around Taiwan during the next few days I hope to see for myself testimony to this progress.

"I welcome the chance in talks with your leaders to have a full and comradely exchange of views which I am sure will further strengthen the ties of mutual trust and confidence between our two countries."

Under Secretary Dillon attended U. S. Embassy and United States Taiwan Defense Command briefings respectively yesterday afternoon and both his and Senator Chavez's groups attended cocktail reception and dinner given by American Ambassador Drumright in their honor in the evening.
