Statement not used

China

I agree with the President's statement that the United States has no predatory design on Formosa and that we should avoid involvement in the Chinese Civil War. There is, however, an important phase of this matter he did not touch on, that is the welfare of the 6,000,000 inhabitants of Formosa. Until their fate is finally determined by a Japanese peace treaty, they are inhabitants of non-self-governing territories and under the United Nations Charter we are obliged to treat their interests as paramount. We have already brought to the United Nations General Assembly the problem of other areas being detached from Japan and Italy, namely, Korea, the Japanese mandated islands and Italy's African colonies. I hope that the future of Formosa can also be considered by the United Nations General Assembly under circumstances that will divorce the fate of these people from the self-interest and prestige of any great power.
