Despatch No: 53. Series of 1867.

U. S. Flag Ship Hartford
2d Rate.
Shanghai China
June 19th 1867.

Hon. Gideon Welles
Secretary of the Navy
Washington D.C.

Sir.

I have the honor to report to the Department, that in accordance with Navy No: 44. Current Series, under date of 3d June last I left Shanghai, on the 7th Inst in the Hartford, accompanied by the "Wyoming", Lieut Commander Carpenter Commanding, for the South End of the Island of Formosa, to destroy, if possible the lurking places of the band of Savages, inhabiting the South East End or Point of that Island, and who murdered in March last, the Ship-

Wrecked

Wrecked officers, and crew, of the American Barque Rover: On the 10th of June on the passage down, I directed Commander Belknap of the Hartford to have forty Sailors armed with Plymouth muskets, and forty with Sharps Rifles, and all the Marines with five Howitzer men;- and Lieut. Commander Carpenter of the Wyoming, to have forty Sharps Rifles and her Marines, all properly officered, ready to Land, provided with forty Rounds of ammunition and four days Rations and Water, in all 181 Officers and Privates:- The Service can not Show a better drilled body of men than these:

I Stopped on the 12th Instant, at Takao on the Island of Formosa to obtain an Interpreter and Mr. Pickering a Scotchman, who had been much of the natives, volunteering his service, they were accepted, he declining pay.

I also received as my guest Mr. Taylor a merchant at that port and H B M's Consul

Lieut Charles Carroll Esquire, who kindly sent out Messengers to communicate with the Savages, with offers of Ransom for all the Survivors, if any remained, of the unfortunate crew of the "Rover", and afterwards went himself in the British Gun-Boat "Cormorant", Commander George E. Broad, to the Bay, in question, and was fired upon, when attempting to land there; — these Gentlemen having expressed a desire, to be of the Expedition: Next morning June 13th, at 8. 30 o'clock, we anchored within a half mile of the shore, on the South East side of the Large Open Bay, indenting the South End of Formosa, a somewhat dangerous Exposure at this Season of Typhoons, though a perfectly Safe and Convenient Anchorage, during the North East Monsoon, from October until May. The Landing of One Hundred and Eighty Men, Officers, Sailors and Marines

Marines, provided with four days Rations and Water, was made at 9'30 o'clock under the command of Commander, J.C. Belknap of the Hartford, accompanied by Lieut. Commander Alexander J. MacKenzie, Fleet Lieutenant, as Second in Command, who earnestly sought to go on the Expedition.

Soon after we anchored, the Savages dressed in cloths and their bodies painted red, were seen through our glasses assembling in parties of ten a twelve on the cleared hills, about Two miles distant, their muskets glistening in the Sun, indicating the Kind of Army they carried.
Their movements were visible to us on board during the most of the day.

As our men marched into the hills, the Savages knowing the paths, boldly descended to meet them, and gliding through the high grass, and from cover to cover, displayed a Strategy and Courage

courage Equal to our North American Indians,- delivering their fire they retreated Without being seen by our men, who charging upon their covers frequently fell into ambuscades: Our detachments pursued them in this Ravaging manner out of sight of the Ship, until Two o'clock P.M. when, having halted to rest, the Savages took the opportunity to creep up and fire upon the party, commanded by Lieutenant Commander Mackenzie, and that officer placing himself at the head of the company, commanded by Lieutenant Sandy, daringly led a charge into the ambuscade, that way Lain for them, and fell, mortally wounded by a musket ball, and died Whilst being Carried to the Rear.

He Nam could boast no braver Spirit, and no man of higher prowess, than Lieutenant Commander Alexander J. Mackenzie: He was distinguished for Professional Knowledge — aptitude and tact, and suavity of manners, which inspired the confidence and affection of men; while his unfeturing courage impelled him always to seek the post of danger, where he was always seen in the advance, both a conspicuous mark, and an Example.

2

Several officers, and men having already Experienced severe Sun Strokes, and the Command, being generally Exhausted and worn out by their efforts to get at the Enemy, during four hours marching, Commander Belknap, now thought it Expedient to regain his Picket on the beach, and during his march of Two, or three miles many of the men got into such a deplorable condition from the killing heat of the Sun, that the Commander determined to return with them, on board of Ship, which he reached about 4 P.M. after an Exhausting march of Six hours

Bay, under the Sun at 92°.

That afternoon, the Fleet Surgeon reported the Casualties of the day; One Killed, fourteen, Sun-Struck; four of them dangerously.

No Sailors, indeed, no troops, unaccustomed to Bush life, ever displayed better Spirit; but it was apparent, that Sailors, are not adapted to that Kind of Warfare, against an Skillful Enemy; and that they could be fitted for it only, by a lengthened Experience.

These Considerations, together with the prostrated condition of many of the men and Officers from Sun-Stroke, and their inability to stand another such day, decided me not to land them again, particularly, as they had already done, all that was practicable for them; namely, burnt a number of Native huts, and chased their Warriors, until they could chase

no

no longer, though at a grievous cost of life. Their coverts of green jungle, and green grass, being fire proof - at this Season, can not be destroyed as I had contemplated.

I observed a Bamboo hut on every clearing, and several buffaloes feeding in the distance; these indicating that the natives are not so wild, and ignorant of human comforts, as they have been represented.

The only effectual remedy against the barbarous outrages on Ship wrecked men, by this tribe, who are not numerous, will be for the Chinese authorities on the Islands, to occupy this Bay, with a Settlement of their own; protected by a Military force, which may be effected through the influence of our Minister at Peking.

Having accomplished all that was possible, I got underway at 9 P.M. and and returning to Takao, on the 14th. Instant, there buried the remains of brave Mackenzie, with the prescribed honors, in the Garden of the British Consulate. Mr. Carroll, the British Consul, having kindly proposed his Garden, for the grave, there being no public burying ground at Takao. The Consular Flags and those of four Merchant Ships, were worn at half-mast, and all the foreigners present, joined in the funeral procession.

At 6.30 P.M. on the 14th Instant, weighed Anchor, and arrived at Shanghai to day, Expecting to meet the Gun Boats coming out to this Squadron.

I Beage Receive herewith the detailed Report of Commander Belknap, marked - A - with the Reports of Commanding Officers of Companies, of the occurrences of the 13th. June, marked respectively, B. C. D. E - - - - -

I also,

also the Report of Fleet Surgeon Beale, marked -F- as to casualties.

I am Sir
Very Respectfully
Your Obedient Servant
H A Bell
Rear Admiral.
Comdg U.S. Asiatic Squadron.

U.S. Flag Ship "Hartford" 2d Rate,
At sea, June 15th 1867.

Rear Admiral H. H. Bell U.S.N.
Commanding U.S. Asiatic Squadron.

Sir,

In obedience to your instructions, delivered on the 13th inst. concerning an at tack upon the Savage tribes living on the Southern extremity of the Island of For mosa, I proceeded immediately to carry them into execution, so far as the character of the country, the nature of its inhabitants, and the extreme heat of the climate would per= mit.

In leaving this Ship on the morning of the date referred to, I directed Lt. Comdr.
G. H. Read with a company of Musketeers, a Squad of Scouts, armed with Sharp's rifles, commanded by Master W. H. Folger, and a portion of the Wyoming's detachment un der the Command of Lt. J. C. B. Hicholson, to land in one of the boats about three quarters of a mile to the Eastward of the place at which I proposed landing, and, pushing for= ward

Asiatic Squadron
Rear Admiral
Commd'g U.S. Asiatic
Squad.
Flagship
Hartford
Original Re Orders of an Expedition to the South End of the Island of Formosa; against the native Tribes. Also Reports
Enclosing Reports
of Commdr. Belknap in Command of Expedition.
Of Commdr. Green &
Of Commander and Reports of Fleet Surgeon
Beadle; and Asst Surgeon
Page. Marked
A. B. C. D. E. & F.
Received Aug. 1867

forward through the jungle, to make for the hills, bearing away to the westward in order to flank the enemy, one mile with the main body on the summit of the hills.
I then pulled into the bay to the Northward of the ship's anchorage, and effected a landing, without opposition or difficulty, Lieuts. A. S. Mackenzie, of our staff, being the first to jump on shore.

The Marines were immediately thrown out as skirmishers along the edge of the jungle which skirts the coast, and reaches down to within a hundred yards of the beach, and, after securing the boats, and establishing a strong picket of seamen and marines, provided with a light howitzer to protect the flanks all under the command of Gunner Cross of this ship, and Gunner Staples of the "Wyoming", I moved on through the jungle towards the hills to the right of the large black rock, indicated on the accompanying plan.

This belt of jungle seemed to be about a third of a mile in width, and the march through through boss very slow, circuitous and toilsome. Now and then narrow foot-paths or trails would be entered, but they were soon in a thick undergrowth of prickly plants and runners and low terminales of a small species of bamian tree, and the men were obliged to force their way through as best they could.

As we emerged from the jungle we entered an open space of some ten acres in extent with a few straggling trees and clumps of bushes scattered here and there over its surface. A little further on, the hills could be seen rising from the plain, broken into spurs with deep ravines between, filled with rocks and a thick growth of grass and small trees.

Having examined the huts they were found, and the command pushed on up one of the hills to the right of the large rock mark in the plan. No enemy could be seen except on a great distance on the crest of the hills above us, and towards our right, but a scattering fire was suddenly opened upon upon us from an ambush just below the big rock. The fire is a volley in return and halting a few minutes to take cover of some bushes, I directed the command directing Lt. Lemoh Mackenzie to remain [illegible] with his portion of the party until I could make a flank movement to the right.

Then, on a signal given by the drums, he would move on up the hill and rejoin me. In the meantime, Lt. Lemoh Mackenzie had bounded with his detachment, and could now be seen on the hills on our right at a distance of about two miles, and an occasional fire of musketry was seen to open upon the party from the hills above.

Lt. Lemoh Mackenzie having rejoined me at the base of the big rock we kept on slowly up the hill, bearing away towards the right, receiving now and then, a fire from the bushes in all directions. Some shots close by, others from a great distance. Fortunately the enemy fired too high and most of the bullets passed over us.
At one point a volley was poured into us at

at a distance of not more than a hundred yards, and Lt. Lemon, MacKenzie and Lt Smith advancing with a party of scouts supported by the main body charged into the ambush but the wily foe had fallen back with wonderful rapidity and made known their escape by loud hallos from the thickets beyond. Only occasional glimpses of the enemy could be caught, their presence being generally discovered by sudden shots from the bushes, and flashes of sunlight reflected from their bright barrelled muskets.

Nearly all the points from which we were fired upon I noticed small barricades of bamboo lashed to the bushes or a small jungle, seemingly for protection to our cannons fire, and to serve as marks to guide them from one ambuscade to another.

As we advanced, the open spaces on the hillsides became more confined, and rocks, bushes, dense jungle and rugged ravines, afforded increasing facility and shelter to the savages, and gave us no hope or chance of getting at them.

Adams

about a mile or more above the big rock already mentioned, the men had become so much exhausted from the march, and the intense heat of the sun, that a halt was called, and entered a belt of jungle to join them that he and Sgt. Sinclair, Mackenzie and Sgt. Sands with a party of scouts were posted in a small thicket above, and to the left of the main body, and a strong picket of twenty men under another Sergt. about a hundred yards below the other party. These outposts together with the position of the main body, making, as it were, the angles of a triangle.

Those pickets having been established Sergt Sinclair - the second in command, to consult with him concerning a further advance. He had been with me about twenty minutes when firing was heard in the direction of the advance pickets, and he hurried back to the front. Meanwhile Sgt Sands had returned the fire and was charging towards the spot where the enemy lay concealed. When Sinclair and Mackenzie

3111

Mackenzie coming up, ordered a halt, the bus ment the latter reached the head of the line he ordered a fresh detachment himself leading.

During this interval, the Indian body had come out of the jungle and were pushing on to the support of the picket line when I heard the cry "A man wounded!
Send for the Doctor"! I called out for Dr Hyde who went to the front and soon after brought to Colonel Mackenzie, lying wound ed in the shoulder, near to the spot where I was standing and by my order carried him further back to the rear.

The spot from which these shots came was backed by a deep khoing, and immediately to the rear, the jungle came down on all sides, so that further retirement than fourteen would have exposed the command to the risk of continued loss without any means or hope of retaliating upon the enemy. The men too, were beginning to show great fatigue and symptoms of sun stroke, and considering considering the expediency of moving on after being encumbered with sick and wounded men, & determined to pull back. I accordingly ordered a retreat sending the main body ahead, and pulling back slowly, covered by the scouts under command of Lt Lounds. A short distance down the hill Lt Lounds party joined me with his party, and was directed to pull back with the main body, a party of Carbineers under Mr Dalgar, remaining with Mr Lounds. Mr Rees had also strong guard out on the route he had taken but failed to accomplish any other object of the expedition.

We were fired on from several places on the way down the hill, but happily none of the shots took effect. Before we reached the plain word was sent me of the death of the gallant Mackenzie.

Upon entering the jungle bringing the coast, the different guards and companies took different routes to secure ourselves smooth, and on pro to prepare them and my belongings, par ticularly to the men who carried the u tensils of the Commander in Chief.

Arrived on the beach, I deployed the Marines along the edge of the jungle to guard against surprise, and sent the body on board ship the moment a boat could be got ready.

It had been my intention to remain on shore and attempt to com municate in the jungle during the night, but I found both officers and men so much worn out from exertion, and extreme heat of the day, that I concluded to embark the entire command and return to the ship. Capt. Young of the Marines and Mate Howell of the Wyoming, and a dozen or more of the men, were already prostrated with sun stroke, and I feared other cases might occur before nightfall.

The route over which we passed was entirely destitute of cattle, provi sions, or any other valuable thing, and 0273.

and we had seen only two or three pools of dirty stagnant water suitable for any one to use as a passage to drink.

That part of Formosa is extremely well adapted to Indian modes of warfare, and the burning heat of the sun at this season of the year is a powerful help to the savages when they use either his cunning and cruel method of fighting, or perfect knowledge of every foot of ground over which he ranges.

The officers, one and all, gave me a hearty and efficient support, and the men did their duty cheerfully and readily.

The following are the names of the officers who were in the expedition, by Lieuts. A. S. Mackenzie of your staff, Lieuts. J. A. Rean, Jr. J. A. Snudon, Master C. W. Dolger, Master's Mates Capt. James Jarvis U. S. M. C., Asst. Surgeon C. A. Page, Gunner C. A. Capt. Admiral's Clerk Louis Furbes, Ensign's Clerk A. C. Briggs of this ship, and Lt. J. C. B. Gleaves, Mate J. T. Stowell and Gunner J. Stubbs of the "Wyoming".

The

The British Consul at Da Kung, Formosa, Chas Carroll, Esq. and Messrs Taylor and Pickering, English subjects residing at that place, accompanied the expedition as volunteers, and rendered good service, being generally at the front. Mr. Taylor went to the assistance of Lt Worth. Mr Pickering when the cry of "Men wounded" was heard.

The following named men deserve special mention for the faithful manner in which they remained by the body of the lamented dead, and brought it safely through the jungle to the boats, viz. Jno. Kelley, Capt. forecastle, Robt. Knight, Armorer, James Franklin, B. Mate, William White, Capt. for top, Jos. McGinnis, Carpt, Jos Cunningham, Sea, and Jno. H. Small, Seaman. One of them, Wm. White, dropped down from exhaustion and sunstroke the moment he reached the beach.

The gallant dead needs no tribute from me - their solitary grave in the the grounds of the British Consulate on Sa Kau, bespeaks a language more eloquent and touching than human utterance can express.

None knew the worth, the high toned character, and professional ability of the deceased, better than yourself, and I but give expression to the general feeling when I add that in him, the service lost one of its bright est ornaments, and the country, one of its most zealous and fullest de fenders.

I enclose a Sketch of the routes taken by the expedition, also reports from Fr Lieuts G. H. Read, Fr Smith, Hospl Surgeon C. H. Page, and Capt. Tarney.

I found the soundings from the ship to the shore, to decrease regu larly and gradually, and the beach quite steep-to, ten large, flat black rocks, could be seen in the bottom, here and there, which would make a danger= ous sea for boats in Southerly winds.

&

I could discover no traces of human bones, or remnants of clothing worn by civilized people, in any of the huts we destroyed, or in any part of the country over which we passed.

On our return through the jungle skirting the coast, we struck into the bed of a dry stream which meandered through, which doubtless runs with good water during the N. E. monsoon, which would be of great advantage to a force operating there during the winter months.

Very respectfully,
Your obt. Servt.
Jno. C. Beckwith,
Comdr.

0271

Despatch # 53.

Enclosure: A.

Commdr. Geo. E. Belknap
Commdg U.S.S. Hartford
At Sea June 15. 1867

Report of movements and proceedings of Expedition under his command, against the Native Tribes, inhabiting the South coast of the Island of Formosa. June 13. 1867

With accompanying Map.

129

324

U. S. Flag Ship "Hartford"
At Sea. June 17th 1867.

Sir,

I have the honor herewith to submit a brief report of the part taken by the Marines on the 13th inst, on the Island of Formosa.

On first landing by your order I took charge of Twenty (20) Marines deploying them forward as skirmishers. A dense and almost impenetrable thicket of brush prevented the men from advancing very rapidly. I penetrated with them to a creek about half a mile from the beach, without meeting with any of the enemy, and was then recalled for further orders. You then instructed me to leave a Sergeant and Five (5) men on the beach, and to advance with the main body headed by yourself. In consequence of all further operations coming under your own observation, I have nothing further to report, except that the men behaved gallantly and deserve credit for the Manner

0777

30

325 which they Marched over such a rough and hilly Country, and under such intense & scorching heat.

2nd Sergt. Gottermeyer was of great assistance to me during the entire day and deserves favorable mention.
Four of the men were struck down by the oppressive heat of the sun but were not seriously injured, and are now doing their usual duty.
The entire number of Marines on shore was Forty three (43). Thirty one (31) of which were from this ship, and Twelve (12) from the "Wyoming" I have to Report the loss of one (1) Springfield Rifle — I think this Rifle is on board of the "Wyoming" by mistake — One (1) Rifle — One (1) Musket Sling and Two
(2) Cartouches.

Very Respectfully
Your Obdt Sert
Saines Forney.
Capt & U.S. Marine Corps.

Commander Geo. E. Belknap.
Comdg U. S. S. "Hartford"

U. S. Flag Ship "Hartford." 12 nav Rate!
At Sea. June 17th 1867.

Sir

In obedience to your order. I have the honor to submit the following report of the movements of the Column under my command, at South Cape. Island of Formosa, on June 13th 1867—

The Column consisted of the following detachments—Twenty-Two (22) Men from the "Wyoming" - under command of Lieut G. W. Glidden. Sixty-two (62) Men from the "Hartford" under command of Master Horace Elmer. and a Skirmish party of Seventeen picked Men from the "Hartford" under command of Master W. N. Folger. Total Ninety-four (94), three of them being equipped as Pioneers—

On reaching the place designated by you for the landing the boats were beached and the Skirmishers under Mr Folger deployed to the front. The line of battle was quickly formed and after mooring our boats 200 yards from the beach. We took up our line of march for the interior - striking for the high range of hills that lay about two Miles from the shore line - The march was painful and tedious owing to the dense jungles of Cactus and Rose vines which covered the soil. but after a tramp of two hours we gained the hills. and destroyed several small houses - which had very lately been abandoned - Shortly afterwards - several small parties of Savages were seen on the hill-tops in our front - who fired at long range

Despatch No 53.
Enclosure B.

Forwarding Report of Movements of U.S. Steam Corps Flag Ship Hartford.
at Sea - June 17th 1867 -
Names Forwarded
Capt assuming Com.

...n upon our Skirmish Line - but quickly
...ated upon their fire being returned -
...his manner they kept up a sort of running ...ff - (retreating from one hill top to another -
...allowing our Skirmishers to approach nearer ...200 yards) for about one hours. But this
...ing over rugged hills - thro' almost impassable
...ground and under a scorching tropical ...sun told on our men and after giving ...a short rest. I turned the Column to ...left. in order to join your command. in ...pursuance to my original orders. The main body
...this time was about one Mile distant - and
...march to join it was the most painful
...ing during the day. Many of the men dropping ...with sun stroke - requiring to be helped ...by their Comrades. Upon coming up ...to you. the Commands were consolidated and ...rest of the Movements took place under your ...which makes it unnecessary for me ...short further - I am happy to be able
...that all the Officers and men behaved
...manfully. The Skirmish party under Martin
...D. Folger. having the hardest marching. and ...the only one that were annoyed by ...Savages -

Very Respectfully
Your Obt. Servant.
A. H. Rhoads
Lieut. Commdg.

Commander
G. E. Belknap.
Commanding Navl Yard Portsmouth

0279

Lt. Comd'r. J. W. Reed
U.S.S. Hartford.
At Sea. June 17. 1867.

Report of the movements of the men under his Command at Formosa
Island of Formosa.
June 13. 1867.

Enclosure. 1.

31

U.S. Flag Ship "Hartford" (Steam Sloop)
At Sea. June 15th. 1867.

Sir:

In accordance with your request I have to report the circumstances attending the death of Lieutenant Commander A. S. Mackenzie of the U.S.S. "Hartford" during a skirmish with the natives of the southern extremity of the island of Formosa upon the 13th. of June 1867. The main body of the troops with which Lieutenant Commander Mackenzie was connected landed at about 10 A.M. and penetrated into the interior of the country about four miles, and halted for rest and shade in the border of a dense jungle at about 2 P.M. with a detachment of ten men under the immediate command of Mr. Mackenzie thrown out to one side to watch the movements of the enemy who had been firing upon us. Soon after halting Mr. Mackenzie was called into the jungle by the officer in command for a consultation as to movements, and during the consultation the enemy recommenced firing. Mr. Mackenzie rushed to the head of his men and in about two minutes I heard the cry of "Doctor! Doctor!" and immediately proceeded to the spot where I found Mr. Mackenzie feeling with his left hand on his right breast. I caught him by the coat collar and asked him where he was wounded, at the same time with what aim I could procure a dressing thinking to the rear as rapidly as possible. He replied only looked up at me, moved his hand on his breast a little higher and said "Page, Page, Page" indistinctly and ceased to live at about 2.30 PM. and about three or four minutes from the time that he was wounded. The wound was round, smooth, of about an inch in diameter, penetrating deeply the upper, anterior and middle portion of the right chest just below the collar-bone, with no external hemorrhage of importance.

Very respectfully
Your obedient servant.
Chas. H. Page
Asst. Surgeon

Commander.
George E. Belknap U.S.N.
Commanding U.S. Flag Ship "Hartford"

U.S.S. "Hartford"
At Sea, June 15th, 1867

Sir;

The following is a memorandum of the circumstances attending the death of Lt. Comdr A.S. Mackenzie, so far as I am able to state -

At about 2. P.M., on the 13th inst., Mr. Mackenzie called for volunteers from the 'Hartford', and I joined him with the ten or twelve men then under my command - in answer to his call -

We were stationed behind a clump of bushes to keep a lookout for the enemy.

A few minutes after we had taken our position, Mr. Mackenzie was sent for by you, and I was left in charge of the party.

At about 2.30 P.M., we were fired on by the enemy who had got on our flank through the underwood, and I ordered a charge and returned their fire. As soon as the firing commenced, Mr. Mackenzie ran up to lead the party

Enclosure: D

Asst. Surgeon C.N. Page
U.S.N.
U.S. Hartford
off Jean, June 15. 1867.

Report of death of Lieut. Comdr. A.S. Mackenzie on Belle Isle Creek of Bermuda: June 13. 1867.

party, and ordered a halt for that purpose before - we had advanced more than thirty yards. As soon as he had reached the front he ordered an advance, and was leading the attack when we were fired on by another party at a distance of about seventy-five yards - The enemy fired five or six shots at once, and it was one of these that struck Mr. Mackenzie - I did not know that he was seriously hurt and left him walking to the rear to meet the Doctor who was coming up at the time - We fired two or three volleys at the enemy and drove them back; but before we had advanced more than fifteen yards further, I received the order to fall back, and it was not until ten minutes after that I learned that Mr Mackenzie was mortally wounded - To reach the enemy, we charged across a fully fenced with long grass which impeded our movements, and ahead of us still there was a ravine backed by dense woods from the -

It was impossible to tell the position of the enemy until we saw the smoke of his guns, and were obliged to fire at the flash.

We were in plain sight - an open mark for the enemy, while they were hid in this underbrush into which we could not see ten feet -

Very respectfully,
G. H. Adams,
Lieutenant

Comdr. F. E. Belknap
U.S.S. Hartford

0213

33

U. S. Flag Ship Hartford, Iroate.
South Bay of Formosa
June 13. 1867

Sir –

I have the honour to repot that the following casualties occurred amongst the officers and men of this ship today, on shore in the affair with the savages of this part of the island: viz –

A. S. Mackenzie,	Lt Commander,	killed.
Geo. E. Belknap,	Commander,	Sun Struck,	severely.
Jas. Forney,	Capt. Marines,	"	" "
Wm White,	C. F. Top	"	" dangerously
Wm Jackson	O.S	"	" "
Jos. Quinton	Sea.	"	" "
Philip Worishoffer	Sea	"	" "
John H. Earle	O.S	"	" slightly,
Edwd. Forrest	Lds	"	" "
Martin Finnerty	O.S	"	" "
Eugene Sullivan	"	"	" "
Thomas Savage	Lds	"	" "
George K. Mills	"	"	" "
John Hynes	O.S	"	" "
Wm Connor	Mar.	Contusion

Lieutt. J. M. Sands.
U.S.S. Hartford.
June 15. 1867: alfsn.

Report of movements of men under his command against the native tribes of the South End of the Island of Formosa.
June 13: 1867
and particulars of death of Lieut. Commr. D. F. MacKenzie.

numerous other cases of exhaustion from the heat and over fatigue presented themselves on the return of the expedition to the ship but as they went to duty almost immediately I have not thought proper to include them in the above list. I will remark however that the men generally when they came back to the ship presented a most exhausted and broken down appearance.

Very Respectfully,
Your Obdt Servt
J. Beale
Surgeon of the Fleet

Rear Admiral H. H. Bell
Comm'd U. S. Asiatic Squadron

P.S. I would also state that Mate Brownell of the Wyoming was also brought on board this ship in a state of delirium following heat exhaustion, but that he recovered sufficiently in the course of a couple of hours to be sent to his own ship.

Enclosure F.

Fleet Surgeon Surg. Beale
U.S.S. Hartford

June 13. 1865.

Report of Casualties among Officers and Men of the U.S. Asiatic Squadron Engaged in the attack upon the native Tribes at the South End of the Island of Formosa.

June 13: 1865.