FROM Mr. Steel, HMCD'a, Wilton.

No. 1909

Dated 20/6/51.

Received in Registry 22/6/51.

No change in U.S. policy on Chinese participation and Formosa in the J.P.I., to what was agreed in London. It is doubtful if State Dept. would agree to statement being issued before end of MacArthur hearings.

My telegram No. 1894. Japanese Peace Treaty.

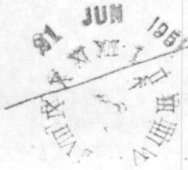

You will now have received personal message from Dulles explaining why Americans do not wish to issue formal statement on Chinese participation and Formosa at this time. Rusk asked us to call this morning and assured us again that American attitude had no connexion whatever with representations received from Chinese nationalists. There was absolutely no change in the United States position on Chinese participation and Formosa as agreed in London. If you have any compelling domestic reasons for wishing a statement made at an early date we are sure that State Department will consider them sympathetically but we doubt whether in any case they would be prepared to agree to issue of statement before end of MacArthur hearings which may be next Monday.

2. Rusk again repeated that Dulles had had much greater success than expected in enlisting support of key Senators (including Senator Knowland) for agreements reached in London. Dulles is seeing Senators Taft and Millikin today and General MacArthur on Friday. If he meets with no strong opposition from these three men our guess is that he would prefer to make no statement at all.

3. We regret that paragraph 1 of our telegram under reference contained a mistake. Conversation there in reported took place hurriedly immediately before a meeting in the State Department. After informing us about representations made in Formosa, Rusk went on to speak of press speculation on the subject of Chinese participation and added that Koo had just been round asking him questions on the subject. We assumed that he was referring to Frederick Kuh of the Chicago Sun (who is a presistent questioner) but we now learn that he was referring to an official démarche by Wellington Koo.
