Office of
THE SECRETARY OF STATE,
Washington.

January 17, 1952.

My dear Mr. Prime Minister:

I have just come from the Capitol where I heard your magnificent address. I greatly appreciated your reference to the Japanese Peacy Treaty which, largely due to my conception, became a U.K.-U.S. cosponsored document and we presented a common front which largely explains the world following we obtained.

I am sorry that in the last day or two there has developed some misunderstanding between our Governments with reference to Japan's China policy; but this does not alter my deep conviction which, indeed, I held in relation to this matter, that we should strive unceasingly for a common position. When we are divided neither of us gains, but only our enemies.

Faithfully yours,

JOHN FOSTER DULLES.

The Right Honorable
Winston Churchill,
Prime Minister,
London.

S/S has commented that this is a thoroughly dishonest letter, implying as it does that differences have emerged only "in the last day or two". He hopes the P.M. did not read any reply. CRJ 23/1
